Welcome to the 4th module of the Empowering Mental Health in Education training course!

A module to think and plan the pilot implementation

Today's journey

Objectives

- 🎯 To understand the final steps of filmmaking, preparing teachers to promote the workshop with students.
- 🎯 To deep understanding regarding the plan of pilot implementation of the YoungMinds.
- 🎯 To develop an action plan for the piloting test phases.

Agenda

10 min	Welcome to today's journey
10 min	What to do next
60 min	Making a short film in classroom
20 min	Mental health on screen!
15 min	Coffee break
50 min	Teachers' action plan
10 min	Before the next sessions
5 min	Your path ahead
10 min	Closing remarks

What to do next

Selection of lesson & film(s)

- Select a film or films that fit your subject, students & classrooms needs.

Implementation of a lesson plan

- Implement a film lesson plan in your class.

Filmmaking

- Deliver a workshop to enable students to do their own short videos

Mental health on screen!

- Organize a screening at your school & invite the local community

Module 4: Vision and action

Filmmaking | How do I do that?

- 📍 In Module 2, we explored some basic exercises on filmmaking
- 📍 In Module 4 is presented a different option on production with your class:

Let's see it in practice!

Identify the main idea of the film according to the 5 key elements:

-  Subjects | Characters of the story
-  Story | Purpose and dramatic development
-  Viewpoint | Who tells the story and how
-  Form | How we represent the story
-  Audience experience

We will watch the short film:

FROM IDEA TO SCENARIO | CREATE A STORYBOARD

- ✓ With the key elements of a story identified, a director starts designing a story that commonly have three part:

- ✓ Create the storyboard from your selected scenario, detailing every scene of the film step by step

Storyboard

Visual, shot-by-shot outline of a story, used to plan and visualize films before production begins. It consists of a series of panels, much like a comic strip, with illustrations or images representing each scene, along with written notes describing the dialogue, action, camera angles, and other relevant details.

LAST TIPS WHEN CREATING WITH YOUR CLASSROOM!

• Write about something familiar, as you can vividly imagine and describe possible situations.

Keep it straightforward! For a first project, it's best to avoid overly intricate plots.

Simple and effective storytelling works best. For groups new to filmmaking, drawing inspiration from a classic narrative structure (like the actantial model) can be helpful.

Short and focused stories are ideal for short films. The plot should capture just a brief moment in the characters' lives.

And remember — there are no strict rules! The film could emerge from improvisation or experimentation, without a clear beginning or end, focusing instead on emotions.

TESTIMONIALS

Before the Shooting

1. Prepare the questions

-  Keep your questions open-ended.
-  Focus on key themes: emotions, message, technical choices, favorite moments, or what surprised them.
-  Have a few backup questions

2. Set up the space

-  Choose a quiet, well-lit environment.
-  Make sure the background isn't distracting.
-  Use a tripod for stability

3. Brief the interviewee

-  Explain the purpose of the testimonial (e.g., feedback, reflection, promotion).
-  Encourage them to speak naturally — it's not a test!
-  Remind them to answer in full sentences.

During the Screening

1. Framing and composition

-  Frame the person in a medium close-up
-  Leave some space in the direction they're looking if they're not facing the camera.

2. Sound and Atmosphere

-  Use an external microphone if possible
-  Avoid background noise (people talking, chairs moving, air conditioning).
-  Let the interviewee pause before answering.

3. Capture Emotion

-  Encourage authentic reactions: excitement, curiosity, reflection, even disagreement.

FILM REVIEW

- Did we like the film?
- Was it sincere? Clear?
- Did it raise questions that we'll keep thinking about?
- Did it remind us of our own experiences?

QUESTIONS ABOUT OUR OVERALL
IMPRESSION

- What is the title of the film?
- What is its duration?
- When was it made?

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE FILM'S
IDENTITY

- What impression do the film's images make on us?
- Do they reflect reality as we usually experience it?
- What about the film's rhythm — is it fast or slow?

QUESTIONS
FILM'S
"CINEMATIC LANGUAGE"

- What is the main theme chosen by the filmmakers?
- What do they tell us about this theme?
- Do their images and words convince us?
- What do we think about this theme?

LET'S ASK... THE CHAT! IN BETWEEN

Identity of the Film

- In Between is a short student film about a young woman who is followed everywhere by a crocodile — a vivid metaphor for her anxiety. Through this imaginative premise, the filmmakers explore how personal insecurities can take on a life of their own.

Themes

- The main theme is the struggle with one's inner fears. The crocodile embodies the girl's timidity, showing how anxiety can grow into an overwhelming presence that isolates and torments. The film cleverly balances humor and discomfort, making us both smile and reflect.
- Personally, I found the metaphor convincing and empathetic — the creature isn't simply a monster but a reflection of something deeply human.

Cinematic Language

- The film's images are playful yet unsettling. The crocodile, following the protagonist through everyday settings, creates both absurdity and tension. The direction uses contrast — between ordinary environments and the surreal presence of the animal — to highlight the heroine's anxiety. The rhythm is brisk but never rushed, and the editing keeps the viewer alert. The sound design, alternating between silence and bursts of music, strengthens the emotional impact. The performances feel genuine, especially the actress's mix of fear, embarrassment, and determination.

Overall Impression

- In Between stands out for its originality and symbolic clarity. It turns a simple idea into a rich reflection on self-acceptance. When the film ends, we feel both relieved and thoughtful — reminded that our flaws may never fully disappear, but we can learn to live peacefully "in between" them.

Mental health on screen: let's watch and talk about it!

July 2026 – January 2027

4 partner schools

Short-film-festival style community events

Programme

- Screening of a curated film on a mental-health topic
- Student productions (with consent)
- Debate/round-table with audience participation
- Showcase from associated schools abroad

Make film-watching a social experience; promote mental health literacy and cultural awareness

≈480 teachers & students, parents/families, school leaders, staff, wider school community

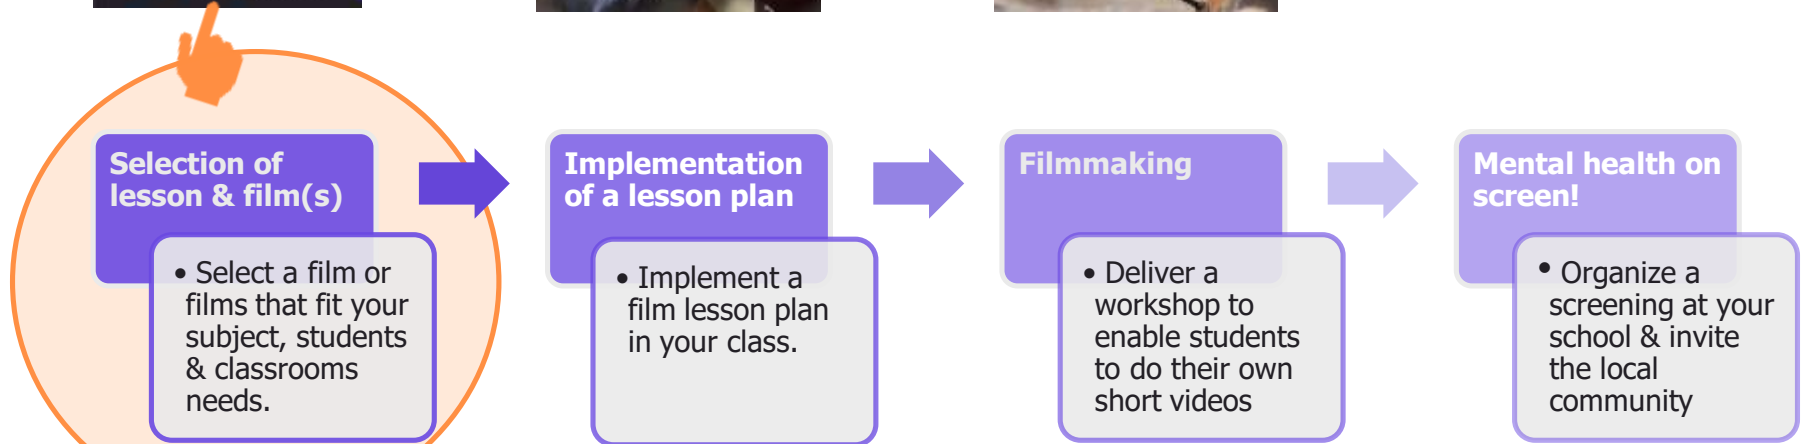

Module 4: Vision and action

Teachers' action plan

What to do next

 Identify goals & objectives What do you want to do and why?	 Identify space & equipment Where you plan to do and with what?	 Define the lesson plans Do you have in mind a lesson plan?	 Logistics & scheduling Do you want to in class, subject, school initiative?...	 Inform & communication How do you plan to let others now of what you are doing?
 Implementation When will you implement and with whom?	 Resources Any specific and additional resource you plan to mobilise?	 Continuous improvement Any idea on how you will keep making it better?	 Celebration & recognition Any suggestion to get the initiative recognised?	 Monitoring & evaluation How will you evaluate and monitor the progress?

You have 15 minutes to reflect on this table. Consider the 1st idea that comes to your mind. In the case you don't have any idea, leave it blank.

Module 4: Vision and action

Before the next sessions

Autonomous work

A. Comprehensive reading on filmmaking:

-  Tips, setting, rules and sound
-  Testimonials and film review

B. Action plans:

-  Take notes on possible ideas for the implementation
